OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

DOMINC L. COMBS,

Defendant.

POST-SENTENCE
PETITION

The Department of Corrections (Department or DOC), petitions the Court pursuant to RCW 9.94A.585(7) for review of the Drug Offender Sentencing Alternative (DOSA) sentence imposed in State v. Dominc L. Combs, Lewis County Superior Court Cause No. 11-1-00329-3. The superior court revoked Combs's residential Drug Offender Sentencing Alternative (DOSA) sentence and ordered credit for time served of 160 days. See RCW 9.94A.660(7)(d). This represents the 160-day time period between when Combs committed the crime of methamphetamine possession on May 13 to the day he was sentenced upon revocation on October 18.

However, 47 of those 160 days were abscond time during which Mr. Combs failed to report. Also, another 42 days was time during which Mr. Combs was in jail on presentence time under the burglary charges. Under RCW 9.94A.505(6) and RCW 9.94A.171, the court is not authorized to give Combs credit for that time. This Court should remand for removal of the illegal credits.

I. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This petition involves the DOC's calculation of tolled time and expired time for a revoked DOSA sentence. Exhibit 1, Post-revocation Judgment and Sentence. In June 2011, Combs pleaded guilty to possession of methamphetamine. Exhibit 2, Pre-revocation Judgment and Sentence. The trial court imposed a residential DOSA sentence of 24 months of community custody. Id. at 4. While on community custody, Combs committed a new felony and was consequently arrested under Lewis County Cause No. 11-1-00635-7 on charges of second degree burglary (the trial court dismissed the charges without prejudice on October 20, 2011¹). He was in jail on those charges from September 8, 2011, to October 20, 2011. Exhibit 3, E-mail from the DOC.

On October 19, 2011, the trial court revoked the DOSA sentence. Exhibit 1. The court then imposed a standard range sentence of 18 months of confinement. See RCW 9.94A.660(7)(c). In the revocation judgment and sentence, the court gave Combs 160 days of credit for time served. See RCW 9.94A.660(7)(d). But the time period between when Combs committed the crime of methamphetamine possession on May 13, 2011, to the day he was sentenced upon revocation on October 18, 2011, is only 158 days, not 160 days.

Also, the jail certified that the actual number of days served in jail on that cause was 64, which accounts for the time period between May 13, 2011, and July 15, 2011. Exhibit 4, Jail Certification. And the DOC also found that Combs had been on community custody successfully or in treatment for only another eight days, from July 15, 2011, to July 23, 2011. Exhibit 3. Thus, in total, the credits that Combs had served under that cause were only 72 days.

The DOC received custody of Combs on October 21, 2011, after revocation. Exhibit 5, OMNI Legal Face Sheet, at 13 (“Admission To Prison”). On October 24, 2011, DOC records staff emailed the prosecutor to request that he ask the court to fix the credits for time served because the 160 days included time during which Combs was in jail on another cause and time during which Combs had absconded from supervision. Exhibit 3.

Counsel for the DOC then notified the court and both parties by letter that the 160 days of credits included abscond time and time serving another cause. Exhibit 6, Letter from the Attorney General’s Office. The letter requested that the court remove its notation regarding credits for time served and instead allow the DOC to calculate tolled time. Id. The court did not respond to the letter. However, counsel for the DOC corresponded by email in December 2011 with the deputy prosecuting attorney who represented the State during the revocation. Exhibit 7, Declaration of Ronda Larson, at ¶4. The communication sufficiently conveyed to the undersigned that the State would be unable to seek a correction in the credits.

Id.

Combs's early release date is currently June 29, 2012. Exhibit 5, at 1.

II. ISSUES

1. Where RCW 9.94A.171 requires that any period of confinement toll a supervision term and provides that the DOC is the agency responsible for administering tolling, did the sentencing court err in ordering credit for time served upon DOSA revocation, and did this violate separation of powers?

2. By crediting Combs's community custody term with the time he spent absconding from supervision and in confinement on other charges, did the sentencing court contravene legislative intent that the length of any type of supervision "not be curtailed by an offender's absence from supervision for any reason including confinement"?

III. CERTIFICATION

The DOC certifies that it made all reasonable efforts to resolve this dispute at the superior court level. On October 21, 2011, the DOC received Combs from the jail after revocation. Exhibit 5, at 13. The DOC then emailed the prosecutor about the credit error. Exhibit 3. Counsel for the DOC then sent a letter to the trial court and all parties notifying it that statute and case law did not allow credit for abscond time and time spent on other causes. Exhibit 6. In response, the prosecutor communicated that the State would not be moving to amend. Exhibit 7, at ¶4.

The DOC filed this post-sentence petition within 90 days of the DOC having become aware of the problems in the judgment and sentence after it received Combs from the jail on October 21, 2011.

Section 9.94A.585(7) RCW does not require formal filing of a petition or motion in the trial court. Sentence of Chatman, 59 Wn. App. 258, 264, 796 P.2d 755 (1990).

IV. ARGUMENT

A. The Sentencing Court's Order For Time Served Violates The Statute That Tolls Community Custody During Confinement

The superior court's order crediting Combs's sentence for time spent in jail on other charges violates RCW 9.94A.171. Under RCW 9.94A.171(3), the DOC was required to toll Combs's DOSA community custody for any period he was in confinement:

Any period of community custody shall be tolled during any period of time the offender is in confinement for any reason. . . .

RCW 9.94A.171(3)(a).

The Washington Supreme Court has explained that that statute “is broadly written and . . . tolls a sentence of community custody when the offender is in confinement ‘for any reason.’” State v. Jones, 172 Wn.2d 236, 245, ¶15, 257 P.3d 616 (2011). “[T]he public policy of this State supports the conclusion that incarceration, even if in excess of the offender’s sentence, cannot satisfy a sentence of community custody.” Id., at 621, ¶16. “Requiring offenders to serve a sentence of community custody in the community serves several purposes of the SRA, including, ‘[p]rotect[ing] the public,’ ‘[o]ffer[ing] the offender an opportunity to improve him or herself,’ and ‘[r]educ[ing] the risk of reoffending by offenders in the community.’” Id.

“The statutory scheme clearly contemplates that a term of ‘community placement’ will be served in the community, under continued DOC control, in order to ensure the offender's smooth and safe transition back into the community.” State v. Donaghe, 152 Wn. App. 97, 111, 215 P.3d 232 (2009).

Additionally, although the DOSA revocation was not a new sentence and therefore RCW 9.94A.505(6) is inapplicable, that statute is persuasive authority. Under that statute, “[t]he sentencing court shall give the offender credit for all confinement time served before the sentencing if that confinement was solely in regard to the offense for which the offender is being sentenced.” Because the confinement time was served under another cause, it was not confinement time served solely on the DOSA revocation sentence. Thus, it should not count toward the DOSA revocation sentence.

The Court should remand to the trial court to remove credit for time spent on other charges.

B. The Sentencing Court’s Order For Time Served Violates The Statute That Tolls Community Custody During Abscond Time

In addition to tolling for confinement, community custody is tolled for abscond time. The court’s order violates the statute that requires the DOC to toll any time during which the offender has absconded from supervision. RCW 9.94A.171(2) states:

Any term of community custody shall be tolled by any period of time during which the offender has absented himself or herself from supervision without prior approval of the entity under whose supervision the offender has been placed.

RCW 9.94A.171(2). The Court should remand to the trial court to remove credit for time during which Combs absconded from supervision.

C. The Sentencing Court’s Order Violates Separation of Powers

In ordering the DOC to credit the DOSA revocation in a particular manner, the sentencing court barred the DOC from applying RCW 9.94A.171. But that statute expressly gives the DOC the sole authority to determine how to toll sentences. It provides that “the date for the tolling of the sentence shall be established by the entity responsible for the confinement or supervision.” RCW 9.94A.171(4) (emphasis added). The use of “shall” in a statute creates an imperative obligation unless a different legislative intent can be discerned. In re Locklear, 118 Wn.2d 409, 418, 823 P.2d 1078 (1992).

The trial court’s authority under RCW 9.94A.505(6) to order credit for presentence time does not apply in the context of a DOSA revocation because such a context is not presentence. Combs’s time on community custody during his residential DOSA is post-sentence time, not presentence time. The court did not impose a new sentence. Rather, the court imposed a contingency that was in the original sentence to begin with—the contingency that the offender will receive a confinement term if he violates his DOSA community custody conditions.

Additionally, although it is arguable that RCW 9.94A.660(7)(d) possibly authorizes the trial court to order credit for time served upon DOSA revocation, it is the DOC’s position that RCW 9.94A.660(7)(d) is directed at the DOC, not at the trial court. The reason is that RCW 9.94A.660(7)(d), if it were directed at the trial court, would conflict with the DOC’s authority under RCW 9.94A.171(4). A court should construe related statutes harmoniously to bring about a unified statutory scheme that maintains the integrity of the respective statutes. State v. Chapman, 140 Wn.2d 436, 448, 998 P.2d 282, cert. denied, 531 U.S. 984, 121 S. Ct. 438, 148 L. Ed. 2d 444 (2000). Because the two statutes do not conflict if one assumes they are both directed at the DOC, that is how the Court should construe them.

Because the trial court's order for credits in effect bars the DOC from applying the tolling statute to Combs's sentence, the trial court's order violates separation of powers. "The question to be asked is not whether two branches of government engage in coinciding activities, but rather whether the activity of one branch threatens the independence or integrity or invades the prerogatives of another." Carrick v. Locke, 125 Wn.2d 129, 135, 882 P.2d 173 (1994). "Courts will not interfere with the work and decisions of an agency of the state, so long as questions of law are not involved, and so long as the agency acts within the terms of the duties delegated to it by statute." Washington State Coalition for the Homeless v. D.S.H.S., 133 Wn.2d 894, 913, 949 P.2d 1291 (1997). "The separation of powers doctrine ensures that the fundamental functions of each branch of government remain inviolate." Hillis v. Dept. of Ecology, 131 Wn.2d 373, 389-90, 932 P.2d 139 (1997). The trial court's order for credits violates the separation of powers doctrine.

V. CONCLUSION

The law does not authorize the trial court to calculate credit for DOSA revocations. The DOC respectfully requests that the Court grant this petition and remand to the superior court to remove its order for credit for time served.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 17TH day of January, 2012.

THIS SHOULD BE THE E-MAIL LETTER I SENT TO THE DPA ORIGINALLY. I THINK WE PROBABLY WILL HAVE ANOTHER CASE COMING OUT OF LEWIS CO AS I HAVE THE SAME SITUATION HAPPENING WITH ANOTHER RESIDENTIAL DOSA REVOKE.

We received Mr. Combs from your county on 10/21/11 as a Residential DOSA revoke on the above cause number. The J&S provided that the State calculates credit for time served as being 160 days (as of 10/18/11). I determined the total time from 5/13/11 (date of crime) to 10/21/11 is 161 days. Based upon this, the Lewis County Jail certification and DOC supervisory records, the following information is provided.

Combs was in jail from 5/13/11 to 7/15/11 for 63 days. He was then supervised or in treatment from 7/15/11 to 7/23/11 for 8 days. On 7/23/11 he left ABHS and was unsupervised and unaccounted for until 9/8/11 for 47 days. On 9/8/11 until 10/20/11 Combs was arrested and incarcerated in the Lewis County Jail on new unrelated felony Burglary charges not yet with a disposition, for 42 days. The jail did not credit him with those days toward the DOSA revocation.

In accordance with the J&S, we are to apply 160 days to Combs' Residential DOSA sentence as of 10/18/11. At issue is that he was unaccounted for on 47 of those days and in jail on other charges for an additional 42 days during this entire period totaling 89 days.

I am asking you to review the above information and reconsider the proper amount of credits to be applied toward this sentence. I would ask for a response to this e-mail if you plan to change the amount of credits to be applied or not. If you need additional information, please contact me.

Respectfully,

DECLARATION OF
RONDA LARSON

I, RONDA LARSON, make the following declaration:

1. I am an assistant attorney general (AAG) for the Washington Attorney General's Office (AGO) at the Corrections Division in Olympia, Washington. I have knowledge of the facts stated herein and am competent to testify.

2. I am familiar with the Offender Management Network Information (OMNI) software used by the Department of Corrections (DOC) and am authorized by the DOC to retrieve information from OMNI. Among other things, OMNI tracks information regarding an offender's location and custody.

3. I printed out the OMNI Legal Face Sheet and chronos for Dominc Combs, DOC No. 893098, to be used as exhibits.

4. After I mailed a letter to the court and parties requesting resentencing of Mr. Combs to change the credits for presentence time served, I corresponded by email in December 2011 with the deputy prosecuting attorney who represented the State during sentencing of Mr. Combs. The prosecutor stated that he and the defense attorney had not received any request from the court to address the credit issue. He also expressed that the State does not feel it would be appropriate for the State to ask the court to fix the credits at this point. The State feels bound by its agreement at the plea hearing, and the prosecutor discussed the issue with the defense attorney who stated that he would not support efforts to fix the credits.

I declare under the penalty of perjury of the laws of the State of Washington that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

EXECUTED this 17th day of January 2012, at Olympia, Washington.
